The aim of the journal is to point out the growing need for an interdisciplinary approach to research, which has already been recognized by the international academic community. Combining theory and practice, the journal enables collaboration between the scientific and professional community, includes works of different themes and ways of research and presentation, and shows the reader's willingness to share the results of his research. The journal accepts works in Polish, English, German, Russian, Czech and Slovak.

The paper of the authors of our institution is published in the first issue, no. 190: Đurđica Jurić, Martina Herceg Rendeli, Jasna Vuk : Application of Code of Ethics at Higher Education Institutions in the Republic of Croatia
