

Accounting and Management

20th international scientific and professional conference

10 – 11 2020

RRiF College of Financial Management and the Association "Croatian Accountant" again this year held their traditional 21st international scientific and professional conference Accounting and Management. This year, due to the COVID19 pandemic, posed new challenges to the organizers and participants, the conference was held online from September 10 to 11.

The conference was opened by Ljerka Markota, PhD Vice President of the Association "Croatian Accountant", and Đurđica Jurić, PhD Dean of the RRiF College of Financial Management.

This year the conference brought a relevant number of scientific and professional papers in the field of accounting and management, emphasizing the importance of human capital. Experts and scientists exchanged their experiences, opinions and practice, and as a novelty in the professional part of the conference, invited lectures by scientists and experts were introduced. Invited lectures were held in the field of taxation, controlling, financing of the SME sector and general and digital management. The papers of the participants were published in the Proceedings, Volume I - scientific papers and Volume II-professional papers.
